SPAIN'S KING WAS NEAR DEATH

Would-Be Assassin Attempted
To Shoot Alfonso as King
Rode Amidst Throng

EQUESTRIAN SKILL OF
MONARCH SAVED HIS LIFE

Anarchist Refuses to Tell
Whether Attempted Killing
Part of Conspiracy or Not

MADRID, April 14.—King Alfonso had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon when a young man fired five shots at him while he was on his way to the palace after the ceremony of administering the oath of allegiance to the troops. One of the shots hit the king's horse, but the king himself escaped injury. The assassin was arrested after a hard struggle in which he used a dagger to defend himself.

Crowd Seeks Assassin's Life
The crowd, enraged by the attack on the king, made frantic efforts to reach the assassin, but mounted soldiers cleared the street and prevented the youth from being torn to pieces. Great excitement reigned throughout the city following the attempted assassination and it was feared that there might be further outbreaks of disorder because of the high feeling. The king reached the palace without further incident.

Some of the shots fired by the young assassin narrowly missed members of the royal escort. The assassin gave his name as Rafael Sanchez Allegro, saying he was a native of Barcelona. He also said he was an anarchist, but at a late hour tonight had refused to tell the police whether the attempt on the king's life was the result of a plot or an individual ambition.

The king showed remarkable courage and presence of mind and, from all accounts, his escape was due to his expert horsemanship. As he saw the would-be assassin grab the bridle of the king's horse and draw a revolver, the king recognized his peril in an instant and dug his spurs into the flanks of his horse, causing him to rear and slightly turn, swinging the king away from the assassin as the latter fired repeatedly.

A bullet struck the horse's neck at a point where but a few seconds before the breast of the king had been. The king's left glove was blackened by the burning powder as it spurted from the muzzle of the revolver.

FORNEY SEES DISASTER TO FARMERS

Says Free Wool and Free Sugar
Will Invite Ruinous Competition

WASHINGTON, April 14.—In an interview with the United Press, representative Forney criticized the proposed tariff bill, saying it would prove disastrous to farmers and laborers. He said:

"Without a doubt placing wool on the free list will double sheep raising and the woolen mills will be left at the mercy of foreign manufacturers. The great beet sugar industry, which has forced the price of sugar to the lowest point in the country's history, will be dealt a telling blow. It invites ruinous competition. It proposes to place agricultural products on the free list, permitting a heavy importation of all products from abroad. The effect on the agricultural industry would be ruinous."

CALIFORNIA WILL FIGHT CITRUS TARIFF REDUCTION
The Democratic caucus met late today to consider agricultural tariffs, including citrus fruits. The California delegation is prepared to fight against the proposed citrus tariff reductions.

7 DEAD, 15 HURT AS AN EXCURSION TRAIN DERAILS
MONTREAL, April 14.—Seven are dead and fifteen are injured as a result of the derailment of an excursion train at St. Lambert, near here, today.

Ojeda Reviled By Prisoners For His Flight

NACO, April 14.—Twenty-eight known dead and eighty-six wounded is the federal casualty list incident to the capture of Naco yesterday by the Mexican rebels. The victors under the direction of American officers are burying the dead. The rebel loss is unknown. The wounded are cared for on the American side.

Gen. Ojeda, who fled across the line with a handful of his federal officers, while his troops made a final stand, is a prisoner in the American camp. His fellow prisoners are reviling him because he fled without giving them notice, despite his brilliant, courageous stand of five days.

The rebels are preparing to move on Guaymas, the only important point left to the federals in Sonora state.

CUTTING CORNER RESPONSIBLE FOR ACCIDENT IN WHICH MAN HAD HIS CHEEK BADLY GASHED

Cutting a corner at Fourth and Main Saturday evening produced a collision of an automobile and motorcycle and a severe injury to H. H. Keith of 1001 Riverine avenue, an employee of the Griffith Lumber Co. Keith had his cheek cut open and received a number of severe bruises.

The automobile was driven by G. M. Etchison. Keith was riding home from work. Etchison afterward declared that the accident was entirely his fault. He cut a corner, and Keith's motorcycle struck the rear wheel of

MORGAN FUNERAL TOOK PLACE TODAY

Three Bishops Officiated With Clergymen; Private Funeral at St. George's Church

SPECIAL TRAIN TOOK BODY TO HARTFORD FOR BURIAL

Stock Exchange Closed Till Noon; Hundreds of Splendid Floral Offerings Sent

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Stock Exchange closed today out of respect to J. Pierpont Morgan, whose funeral took place today at 9:15 o'clock. The casket was taken to St. George's Episcopal church, the Morgan family accompanying in carriage. The services at the church were private. A vested choir preceded the casket up the aisle. The services were conducted by Bishops Greer, Brewster, Lawrence and clergymen. The streets about the church were guarded by the police. After the simple service requested by Mr. Morgan was carried out, the body was placed on a special train and taken to Hartford.

The Italian ambassador represented the King of Italy at the funeral. Hundreds of magnificent floral pieces were delivered at the Morgan library on East Thirty-sixth street, where the body of the financier was lying in state, yesterday.

As the casket was carried into the church, the Thirty-ninth and Ninetieth Psalms were chanted. The hymns, "Asleep in Jesus," and others were sung, and there were scripture reading and prayers prior to taking the casket to the Grand Central station, from where it was taken to Hartford. The services at Hartford were private.

HARTFORD HONORS MORGAN

HARTFORD, Conn., April 14.—Practically all business here was suspended today, the citizens of Hartford attending the Morgan services upon the arrival of the body here. The schools were closed and the streets are filled with children. The church bells were tolled. Bishop Brewster officiated at the service at the grave.

RICH CRIPPLE MURDERED IN HIS BED

Wife of George Dietz Found Him Lying Dead and Mutilated When Went to Wake Him

LETTER ON BODY CHARGED BETRAYAL OF SOME GIRL

Police Believe Murderer Killed Wrong Man; Dietz Said to Have Been Blameless

CHICAGO, April 14.—"This is a fit fate for the beast who ruined a young girl. He will ruin no more."

This note was found today by the bedside of George Dietz, a rich tailor. The note is the only clue to one of the bloodiest murders Chicago has known in years.

Dietz's body lay on the bed. His skull had been beaten to a pulp, and his face was a mass of broken bones. He lived in an apartment house which he had erected. According to his wife, the couple retired in adjoining rooms last night. Today when she called her husband, he failed to respond. She went to his bed and laid her hand on his shoulder, but withdrew it covered with blood. Dietz was 59 years old. The police know nothing of any affair with a girl.

Laid across the dead man's face was a huge sheet of paper upon which were stenciled the following words: "This man ruined my daughter. I want to tell all people I'm feeling like a man to do right. I killed him like a beast. My girlie tell me all when she was sick. I tell you people also. If he kill me first, I care not, but I want you people to know I'm poor man. I work hard. He rich. He take her to the hotel, then to his house when his housekeeper was away. He give her the key to his door so she look like the housekeeper. He gave my girlie soda. The child got sick and tell me, I feel so mad, but must not tell any one. The fiend say he love the girl. I called with another man. He called me a blackmailer."

Here followed characters not clearly stenciled. The sheet concluded: "So help me Gott, I write just so people understand."

The police think the slayer picked the wrong man. Dietz was old and crippled and lived happily with his wife. He is not known to have ever had any affairs with girls. The children in the neighborhood say they saw a tall dark man there recently. The Greek and Italian quarters of the city are being combed.

WANTS ASSOCIATION TO AFFILIATE WITH STATE DRIED FRUIT EXCHANGE

Growers Hear Interesting Address by Writer For Farm Papers--Received Little Over Seven Cents For Apricots

At the annual meeting of the Orange County Dried Fruit Association the growers failed to bring out a quorum, and adjournment was ordered for a meeting two weeks later, to be held at the city hall, since the passing of trains by the packing house proved to be too noisy. The secretary made his annual report for the past season, and for the unfinished business of the previous year. These reports will be sent to the members in printed form.

The time was given over very largely to Mr. J. F. Dargitz, whose name has become familiar to readers of California farm papers. He has been the manager of the very successful California Almond Growers' Exchange, and is himself a large grower of almonds and other fruits. Naturally he told of some of the experiences of the almond growers, and how now the almond business has been put on a fairly stable basis, returning a fair price to the producer. This in spite of the fact that the Exchange does not yet control half of the crop. This, by the way, is in consonance with the assertion I have frequently made that the effect of an association upon the market price is far greater than is justified by its numbers. There is no doubt but what the apricot growers associations of Orange and Ventura counties have had an influence on prices for the last three years all out of proportion to the number of members.

Mr. Dargitz resigned his position as manager of the Almond Growers' Exchange to become manager of the California Cured Fruit Exchange. This is the central selling agency of thirteen associations in the Sacramento valley, with the fourteenth organizing while the speaker addressed the meeting. It is seeking affiliation with the associations throughout the state, and the object of Mr. Dargitz was to explain its working plans to our members. It expects to do for the dried fruit industry what the California Fruit Growers' Exchange is doing for the orange and lemon growers, and the California Walnut Growers' Exchange is doing for the walnut growers, and the California Almond Growers' Exchange is doing for the almond growers. Since our growers here are very familiar with the benefits derived from these growers' exchanges, and since our growers have naturally desired an affiliation of the interests of the dried fruit producers throughout the state, the remarks of the speaker fell into receptive minds, and a committee was appointed to look into the feasibility and practicability of affiliation with the California Cured Fruit Exchange, a report to be made at the adjourned meeting. It is hoped that this matter will be thoroughly considered by our members before the next meeting, and that there will be a large attendance in person and by proxy. The report of the secretary showed an average net return to the growers of 7 1/4 cents per pound. Out of this last year's additions to the packing house and machinery have been paid, so that the association is free of debt, the members own a substantial packing plant, and the association is able to enter the new season without the drawbacks of a year ago. The cash return to the grower, on account of this business investment, was of course less than the 7 1/4 cents, and the members also had to wait for the final dividend. But when all is said and done it comes to this: The association boosted the price for all the growers of Orange county, and has placed them under obligations. The members of the association could have had 8 cents per pound if the outsiders had not started to sell at 7 cents. In some of the Eastern cities the fruit which was bought here at 7 cents a pound is right now being sold at 30 cents per pound. What are you going to do about it?

A letter from Sacramento advises me that "the apricot crop of Northern California has been so badly frozen that on the whole it will not exceed one half of a crop, and probably not over 25 per cent. Very few sections report anything like a fair crop while many of them have absolutely nothing. We had some twenty frosts during the month of March, and the early fruits have been very severely injured."

In talking with Orange county growers it develops that the first bright prospects for a big crop have been severely cut down for many orchards. Some growers will have but a very light crop, others will have a fair crop, and some a good crop, but none a bumper crop as far as I have learned, so that the average for the county may fall as low as 50 to 60 per cent of a crop, and will certainly not, with present prospects, be above 75 per cent. Some growers believe that the heavy white frosts in March injured their crop. This was certainly not general, for other orchards show no frost effect.

ASSEMBLY PASSES INDETERMINATE SENTENCE MEASURE

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—By a vote of 36 to 30, the Assembly included rape with robbery and murder in the exemptions from the Ellis indeterminate sentence bill. The proposal to include arson was defeated. During the discussion of the bill, the California judiciary was grilled by Peairs, Inman, Finnegan and Johnston, with Palmer of Napa defending. Challenging Johnston, he said:

"Has not the California judiciary done more good than harm?"

"No, it has not," Johnston shouted. Peairs of Los Angeles declared that society itself is responsible for 25 per cent of the criminals in prisons. This is due, he declared, to society's inability to support civic conditions breeding crime. "Do away with the saloons," he cried, "which we are standing for as a people. Then you will empty our penitentiaries."

Briefly, the Ellis bill would permit prison directors to determine when the convict is ready for liberation any time after one year's imprisonment, save in the exceptions noted above.

MAYBURY RANCH SOLD ADVANCE OF $25,000

The Maybury ranch in the northwest corner of the city has been sold again, this time for $110,000, which is an advance of $25,000 over the price for which it was purchased by Leo Borchard and F. E. Farnsworth from the Maybury heirs, Eva M. Price and Mabel Armstrong, about six weeks ago. The deal was made through the realty agents, Carden & Scott. The purchaser is a syndicate composed of Harry Gray of Los Angeles and two Pasadena men.

The new owners will sub-divide the ranch which has almost 400 acres in it into tracts of from five to forty acres. The sum of $40,000 was paid on the deal today into the Abstract & Title Guaranty company office.

POPE PIUS AT CRITICAL POINT

Fever Mounts High Later In Day After Improvement Was Reported In Morning

VATICAN IS ALARMED AND GUARDS ARE DOUBLED

Pontiff's Physicians Disagreed Over Condition But Claim Pope May Recover

ROME, April 14.—Pope Pius suffered a hemorrhage tonight. He was alone when he was attacked. His physicians were hastily summoned from their quarters at the Vatican.

Mounting Fever Alarms

ROME, April 14.—After favorable reports this morning it was stated later that the Pope's fever had returned, his temperature going to 102. The Vatican is alarmed and the guard about the sickroom was doubled. Dr. Marchiafava will spend tonight at the Pope's bedside.

Early Reports Were Favorable

ROME, April 14.—Pope Pius slept but little last night following his fourth relapse, but when he awoke Dr. Marchiafava said all traces of his kidney trouble had disappeared. The reports of the Pope's condition issued by Drs. Marchiafava and Amici differ. Dr. Amici spent the night at the Pope's side. He declared symptoms of pneumonia were present, and that fits of coughing caused a bloody expectoration.

Dr. Amici is said to have differed decidedly from Dr. Marchiafava, the physicians quarreling violently. Both, however, signed a bulletin this morning saying: "The Pope passed the night tranquilly. He has no fever today and his general condition is good." Dr. Marchiafava refused to permit the Pope's temperature and respiration to be included in the bulletin. Dr. Amici, privately discussing the Pontiff's condition, admitted the gravity of the case, but said it was not immediately alarming.

Dr. Amici said: "We believe we can overcome the present crisis. If the Pontiff follows our advice he may live some years. The present relapse is due to his reluctance to submit to orders."

Papal Secretary Merry Del Val today ordered Swiss guards to search the Vatican, expelling all who have no business there. The Pope's sisters are making a lace shroud but their brother does not know of their labors. They visited their brother, the Pope, today.

The physicians agreed that the crisis is near and that if the Pontiff survives another day, he will recover. Heart stimulants, including digitalis, are being injected regularly.

Despite his illness, the Pope continues cheerful. "One thing your cleverness can't remove is my seventy-eight years," he told the physicians. He did his utmost to encourage his sisters, who are greatly affected over his condition.

Pope's Cousin Dies

OMAHA, Neb., April 14.—Rev. Mother M. Rock, 54 years old, cousin of Pope Leo XIII., died yesterday at the Poor Clair convent. Her death was the result of a shock sustained in the tornado which partially wrecked the convent last Easter Sunday.

PROBERS HEAR OF SUICIDE OF VICTIMS

Statistics Show Number of Girls Betrayed Suiciding; Home Is Proposed

CHICAGO, April 14.—Statistics showing the number of girls dying in Chicago from criminal operations or suicide, following betrayal, were read before the legislative vice probers by Coroner Hoffman today. Hoffman recommended that the state or separate counties provide homes for wayward girls about to become mothers. He said:

"Why should not society, which welcomes their betrayers, care for these girls in an institution maintained for them alone?"

WITH 13 POINTS ANAHEIM IS SECOND

Beebe and Elliott of Mother Colony Take Points in Stanford Meet

TWO SANTA ANANS GOT INTO FINALS

Orange County Boy Sets Two New Records, One Mile and Other Half-Mile

With two new records to his credit, Beebe of Anaheim Saturday took two firsts in the interscholastic track and field meet at Stanford University. Elliott of Anaheim took second in the discus. Thus Anaheim secured 13 points, and tied for second place with Palo Alto. Stockton won the meet with 25 points.

West, Anderson and Adkinson of Santa Ana were in the meet but were unable to score any points.

Beebe has established himself as the best high school distance man in the state, probably as good as any high school runner yet in spikes in this state. He won both of his events Saturday easily, establishing two Stanford interscholastic records, though he did not break his own record in the half-mile. Beebe's time Saturday was 2 minutes 1 3/5 seconds in the half-mile and 4 minutes 38 2/5 seconds in the mile.

The discus was won by a Pasadena athlete, Bagnard, with a toss of 122 feet, 3 inches. Elliott was second.

West of Santa Ana qualified for the finals in two events, the 220-yard hurdles and the pole vault. In the preliminary heat he ran second to Grunsky, the star of the meet, who covered the low sticks in 27 seconds flat. In the finals West was unable to place.

West was one of six to qualify for the finals in the pole vault, 10 feet 6 inches being the height required to enter the finals. A Santa Paula vaulter, took the event at 11 feet 8 inches, and West was unable to score.

Anderson of Santa Ana qualified for the finals in the high jump with five other jumpers who covered the bar at 5 feet 8 inches. While Anderson's showing was excellent he could not score. The event went to Pomona at 5 feet 10 1/4 inches.

Adkinson entered the distances in fast company and while he made a good showing he could not score.

Elks Minstrel Rehearsals Start Tomorrow Night

Mr. George T. Wilson, who will direct the big Elks' minstrel show that will be given at the Grand Opera House on the evenings of April 28 and 29, arrived yesterday and called the first rehearsal for Tuesday night at the Elks' Hall at 7:30. Mr. Wilson has been a producer of operas and minstrel shows for over fifteen years, and last season put on the Elks' shows at San Pedro, Santa Barbara and several other California cities. He carries with him expensive scenery, costumes and lighting effects; he is a graduate of Western College Conservatory of Music (Toledo, Iowa), has written several of the songs used in the show, and produces with home talent a minstrel performance that is the equal of the large professional companies like Dockstadter's and Primrose's. The lodge is determined to make the entertainment the best they have ever given and have appointed strong committees to insure success. The cast committee wants every Elk who can carry a tune, dance the Turkey Trot, play a Jew's harp or recite "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star," to be on hand tomorrow night.

The following committees have been selected:
Cast—R. R. Shafer, J. F. Parsons, Fred Ross, F. C. Rensberg, W. F. Menton.
Advertising—F. P. Nickey, P. S. Roper, H. D. Connell, E. S. Morrow.
Tickets—Geo. E. Peters, W. C. Jerome, Sam Jernigan, W. L. Deimling, J. C. Burke.

ANNIVERSARY OF SINKING OF TITANIC IN ATLANTIC OCEAN

NEW YORK, April 14.—Just a year ago—more than 2000 persons were joyful that they had a share in the maiden voyage of the greatest boat the world ever knew, playing tennis on deck, floating in the tempered waters of a swimming pool, dining in luxurious salons, chatting in drawing rooms more regal than a king's palace, and listening to the world's finest music. Then came a crash, darkness, death, heroism, cowardice, the manning of lifeboats, the escape of those who could get away from the sinking bulk—featured the last moments of the Titanic as she sank April 14, 1912, and the most frightful sea tragedy of all time was enacted.

It was late in the evening when the craft ground into the iceberg off the Newfoundland Grand Banks, four days after she started on her first trip. The night was clear, the sea smooth. It was 11:46 ship's time, or 10:13 New York time. The orchestra was playing on the decks, the women of the first cabin were lingering in the light and warmth and gaiety of the dining rooms where there was music and bubbling life. The men were smoking their good-night cigars. In the second and third cabins, there was like joy, with the prospect of "home" or a "new land" but a few hours away.

And then came the towering berg, the belated heading of repeated warnings that ice was in the vicinity, the grinding crash and the icy sea. The whole tale has been often told—how brides were torn from husbands; how children were put into boats by frenzied parents who hoped their little ones might be saved even though they perished themselves; how the men save for a few shameful exceptions, stood back and waited for death while the women were given first place in the life-boats; how the musicians struck up "Nearer, My God to Thee," and played it until the water smothered their melody; how the Carpathia, rushing to the rescue, stood by and gathered up survivors; how relatives, besieged the offices of the White Star line for the news that was three days in reaching land. That disaster stands out grim and awful today, though the world has again been shocked by tales of cyclone and flood that have exacted great toll of life.

The Titanic, launched May 31, 1911, represented the best that marine architects could build. She was built for capacity, comfort and speed. She was 824 1/2 feet long, 92 1/2 feet beam, was of 46,326 tons register and cost $7,500,000. She carried 2,223 persons, including the crew.

Of these, 1,517 were lost and 706 saved. Of the 325 first-class passengers, 199 were saved, or 60 per cent; of the 285 second-class passengers, 119 were saved, or 42 per cent; of the 710 third-class passengers, 164, or 25 per cent were saved.

Whether or not this ocean horror might have been avoided had owners and officers heeded the repeated ice warnings of other ships soon ceased to be important. The question after the official investigation by the United States senate, which ended May 28, 1912, was whether such catastrophes could be avoided hereafter. After days of investigation, the commission headed by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, recommended drastic changes in the laws relating to ship construction and a system of vigilance that would expedite the handling of passengers in time of peril.

Among the ill-fated passengers on the ship that went down were some of the prominent figures of contemporary life. There were Col. John Jacob Astor, Major Archibald W. Bull, Francis D. Millet, the artist; William T. Stead, journalist and philosopher; Jacques Futrelle, novelist; Benjamin Guggenheim, merchant; Charles McVillie Hays, railroad president; Isidor Straus, merchant and philanthropist; John B. Thayer, railroad vice-president; George D. Widener, traction magnate; Henry B. Harris, theatrical manager; Clarence Moore, sportsman; Arthur Ryerson, lawyer; Frederick Sutton, merchant; and the gallant skipper, Capt. E. J. Smith. These are but a few of the illustrious names and the story of how each man died is a romance of itself.

One of the most thrilling experiences of the disaster was that of Col. Archibald Gracie of Washington, who was sucked down in the vortex, carried up in the swirl in time to seize a bit of wreckage and was saved. His death a short time ago is believed to have been a direct result.

Following the disaster, hundreds of damage claims were filed against the Oceanic Steam Navigation company, controlling the White Star line. Tomorrow has been fixed by the court as the final day for reception of these and it is believed the total amount asked will exceed $8,000,000. From this list the name of Mrs. Madeline Force Astor is absent, but Mrs. Harris seeks $1,000,000 for the death of her husband and Mrs. Futrelle, $300,000. Many of these claims, though some are sordid, reflect thrilling lights of the catastrophe.

With one year gone, with investigations by America and Great Britain ended, the one fact stands out—the "unsinkable" had sunk and man had again failed to conquer the sea.

"Always Air"

ALWAYS AIR is a fluid compound, a small quantity of which, when placed in the inner tube of a pneumatic tire will instantly, automatically and permanently stop all punctures from the smallest to the size of a 20-penny spike.

IT IS NOT A TIRE FILLER

It is not only inexpensive but adds 50 per cent. to the service of tires. It will not injure rubber. It is not affected in its operation by heat or cold. It will not harden, gum, dry up or deteriorate. It will not stick the inner tube to the casing. It cannot come into contact with the casing. It can be changed from one tube to another. It will last for years. It adds practically no weight to the tire (only about three pounds to the largest tire.) It fills only a small portion of the inner tube, and the pneumatic quality of the tire is retained.

After picking up a nail in the road, you will always run at least a block and generally a much longer distance on a flat tire. This shortens the life of the casing at least 50 per cent, sometimes ruins it immediately. After having tires treated with our fluid you may remove nails at once or never remove them, and in either case there is no leakage of air.

THE BAD ROADS TAX

Once in a while—not often, to be sure—but every now and then we hear something about the cost of good roads as expressed in high taxes. As a matter of cold arithmetic, the biggest tax that any community pays is the bad road tax. It is a tax on bread and butter and not only that, it is a tax on opportunity. And that isn't all. It is a tax on good health and good morals, on peace and piety, on culture and contentment, on pleasure and prosperity, on friendship and fairplay, on honor and hospitality,—on everything that makes life worth living.

Civic Training

Address by E. H. McMath Prin. of the High School, Before the Santa Ana Civics Club.

PART I.

The first duty of the state, as of the individual, is to perpetuate itself. No matter how high may be the ideals of a nation; no difference what the state of culture and civilization may be, all finally comes to naught if the state permit itself to come to an untimely end. It matters not whether the state be overthrown by some foreign enemy, whether it be disrupted from internal strife, or whether it lose its vitality through dry rot—the unwillingness of its people to undergo the discomforts connected with the bringing of children into the world—when the state has been overthrown, its period of usefulness is at an end.

In the performance of this duty to itself it is bound to lay hold on all effective instruments within its grasp. It will, so far as possible, direct the life of its citizens, religious, moral, economic and educational, into such channels that the nation may not perish. By so doing, it performs not only a duty to itself but to the world. "A man cannot be a good citizen of the world unless he is first a good citizen of his state."

The state has need of a public spirit and of a public opinion; educated and sane if possible; but some sort of opinion and spirit. The state where the people have no interest in public affairs, where each is engrossed in his own particular problem only, where there is no knowledge and discussion of matters which concern the other members of the body politic, such a state does not have in it the elements of stability which are possessed by a nation where the citizens are alive to the issues of the hour, where the interests of the individual and where there is a feeling of individual concern and responsibility for the behavior of the state as a whole. This feeling of interest in the larger whole when applied to business may be seen in the presence or absence among the employees of a business house of an esprit de corps. The school or college where the student is concerned with his own life only is not a complete institution. Schools deliberately foster this school spirit, or college spirit. It must be differentiated, however, from animal spirits. A legislative body, as the national Congress, or state legislature, does not do its effective work until the members have knit themselves into a unit; aroused a public spirit, and created a public opinion. The spirit of rank individualism, where each is inclined to place before the interests of the state, his own personal advantage, is to be combated only by arousing the group interest, opinion, and spirit. The affairs of the individual cannot seem so supremely important to him who sees in every event the effects which it may have upon the nation as a whole.

The United States of America has a peculiar need for civic training. It has not only the problems which inhere to it because of its separate existence as a nation, but because of the presence within its borders of large numbers of peoples of other races, and because of the tremendous influx of immigrants—more than three-quarters of a million annually—it has problems in civic training which are not present in a homogeneous nation whose population are indigenous to the soil. These thousands of newcomers, from every race and every land, with widely varying ideas and ideals of citizenship, and all different from the notions which we in America are trying to work out, must all be Americanized. To Americanize these people means to give them something of the heritage belonging to the native born American. It means to take these varying ideals, hopes and interests, and unify them. It means to take hold of the self-interest which is always present in all peoples and so direct and instruct the newcomers that there shall be aroused the common feeling of patriotism.

But what is patriotism? What passed for patriotism in this country for a long time was the repetition over and over again of the statements that this is the greatest nation on the globe; that America is able to whip any other nation that might attack her; nay, more, that without any army or navy she may defy the combined fleets and armies of the world; that America has the broadest fields, the most fertile soil, the wisest men, and the most beautiful scenery to be found anywhere beneath the stars, etc. etc. It has been considered a demonstration of patriotism by many to make one's presence uncomfortable to the citizen of any other country, by boasting, taunting, bullying, and otherwise demonstrating an assumed superiority in all things because of the accident of birth which placed the unfortunate individual in a republic rather than in a monarchy.

This is not patriotism, it is Chauvinism. The one teaches us to love our own land and race first, because it is ours and we believe it has done and that it promises to do most for man and for that which is best in man especially for the good old cause of liberty, peace and righteousness. The other teaches us to hate men for the love of God or the love of country. Nor is it effective in establishing the asserted superiority. To exalt one's family by insulting one's neighbors has never been a successful method of establishing one's superiority. Dr. Johnson defines such patriotism as "the last refuge of a scoundrel."

Such assertions are not heard so often as they were. The cheap patriotism of denouncing other countries is offensive. The wearisome reiteration that this is the greatest country in the world is heard no more. It may be because the speakers have succeeded in convincing themselves that their statements are true, or perhaps they have perceived the futility of trying to get anywhere on the strength of any such statements. It has now been indicated that all nations have a need and a right to inculcate patriotism. It has been pointed out that America, because of the presence of other races within her borders, and because of the large immigration, has especial need for civic training. It has been shown that patriotism does not consist in belittling one's neighbors, nor in magnifying the virtues of one's native land. We shall now consider the positive side of patriotism. Patriotism consists, first, in economic independence. The first step in civic training consists in enabling the citizen to earn his living. Our jails are full and overflowing, largely because of economic unfitness on the part of the individual. Our civilization rests on an economic foundation. It makes no difference how high may be our ideals, nor how righteous the purposes which we actuate, if we as a nation are not self-supporting, we must give way to others who are able to make better use of the land and the opportunities that are afforded them. Art, music, literature, architecture, religion; all must come after the race has established itself economically. During the long epoch of pioneering in this country, when strong men and women were pushing back the wilderness and extending the outposts of civilization, those actively engaged in the work had neither the time nor the means to cultivate the fine sensibilities. Not until there has been accumulated sufficient stores to satisfy the pressing needs of humanity is there opportunity for the development of the higher arts.

It is pretty hard for man to be a good citizen on an empty stomach. It is exceedingly difficult for a citizen to measure up to his highest responsibilities when his clothes are ragged or faded. A man is but one step removed from an anarchist when his family, those who are dependent on him for protection, are in danger of death from the lack of food and clothing and fuel, and he knows not how to wrest in a legal manner, from society, the means for satisfying the pressing demands of hunger, thirst, cold, and disease. The first step, then, in teaching the civic virtues is to teach the man to be independent economically. It has been said that in order for a man who has been so careless as to be born of incapable parents into poverty and ignorance to learn how to earn an honest living, he must first be sent to jail. They teach the prisoners trades.

"The second step in teaching civic virtues is intellectual. Our young American must be given a knowledge of the relation of man to man and to the state. He must be given a knowledge of the machinery of government, of his rights and duties in connection with that government, and must learn how to get along with his neighbors. A large portion of the litigation which swamps our courts, arises because our people do not know what are their rights in relation with each other. The misrule of the cities, where such exists, is due to a large extent because the people as a whole do not understand the machinery of government. They feel that something is wrong, but when in their wrath they arise to right conditions, they spend their strength in impotent rage, helpless to remedy the defect, because the great majority of the voters do not know the details of the system of government, and do not understand the practical workings of our complicated representative plan of rule.

The third phase of civic training is moral, or ethical. This we shall consider under two heads: passive morality, and aggressive morality. By passive morality is meant those virtues which have to do with the individual in his private life, and which perhaps be better called, better personal morality as against the other virtues which I have chosen to call aggressive morality, but which might perhaps be known as public morality. Among the passive or personal morals which should be taught are truthfulness, love of justice, love of humanity, conscientiousness, diligence, perseverance, self-restraint, and the love of right. It will be noted that nowhere in our list may be found "love of country." We have placed there instead the larger virtue, "love of right." The list of morals or virtues above enumerated are neither exhaustive but will probably be found to include the more prominent of the virtues to be cultivated for the economic life, for the social life, and for the cultivation of a broad public spirit. Patriotism is coming more and more to be felt to be a question of morality. Instead of the pride of nationality because of what has been achieved by past generations, or because of what may be found in the soil by the energetic, we now seek to substitute a love of the nation because it is right, or if it is not in the right, then a sincere effort to put it in the right.

And right here is where the aggressive morality comes in. It is not sufficient to know that there is wrong being done. It is not enough to wish the right were triumphant. The individual must do his part in making the right prevail. And this is true both in our indirect relations with our fellows through the state, and in our direct dealings with them in the shop, on the street, and in the reception room. "We want to take boys and girls and not only have them to know what is true but to create in them a disposition and a purpose to do what is right and what is true; not because it pays, but simply because it is right and true." It is not enough to have the youth of the land enthused with rejoicing and with pride over the heroism of the great leaders of the past, nor to admire the heroism of the common soldier, nor is it sufficient if the boy's heart glows within him when the national anthems are sung, or when the national heroes are enumerated. We want to "get beneath the manipulation of patriotic emotions in the past to the essential and underlying principles, from the deeds to the spirit." We strive to "show what are the peculiar perils of our country today; to discover the real enemies." We hope to "teach how the enemies are to be met and conquered; in other words how the old spirit must manifest itself under the new conditions."

In private life, this means that the citizen should strive to make of himself as efficient a unit as possible. It is by combining the units that the whole is made up. The whole will be no more efficient than the result obtained by combining the abilities of the individuals. "Goethe says that in time of peace patriotism consists merely in this: That each one sweep before his own door, attend to his own business, learn his own lesson, that it may be well in his own household." Goethe's statement of the case, while palpably deficient in enumerating the qualities pertaining to patriotism in times of peace, contains much of truth. In times of peace the greater portion of the time of the private citizen will be occupied with the performance of the small duties of the daily life. If he attend to his own business and have a proper feeling of responsibility for the behavior of his neighbors, he will probably not go far from the course of action demanded of the patriot so far as the private life is concerned.

THE WHITE MAN AND "THE BOOK"

In making comparisons in the characteristics of Jesus and Siddhartha some striking similarities came into bold relief. Both professed to reveal the true way of life. Both were born by supernatural interposition. There were unusual natural phenomena at the birth of each. Great or wise men presented and worshipped the babes. Each had a period of seclusion. Each had a series of temptations and struggle in a wilderness. Each conquered in these trials. The temptations were almost identical. The people attributed divine powers to each. Both descended from royalty to poverty. The birth of each occurred while his mother was on a journey. Both taught that happiness was gained not by seeking it but came in service to our fellow creatures.

My Panchai stated that the Southern or Pali Buddhists did not accept the strictly miraculous portions of the Northern or Lamohistic Buddhists. That which the Pali Buddhists rejected were those marvelous events in Jesus' career which are accepted to prove his Messiahship. According to the Lamohistic teaching, Siddhartha was the child born of a virgin. Siddhartha was the only begotten son. Angels attended his birth. Wise men who were traveling came to the child, being attracted by the stars. When Siddhartha was presented to his father an aged saint and prophet worshipped him and predicted that the child would become a Buddha. He would show the people the way of salvation. The wise men also prophesied the greatness of the child when he should be a man. One mention only of his youth is made. He surpassed all in physical and mental ability, even instructing his aged tutors. Then follow numerous miracles and performances just such as are narrated in the "Gospel of the Infancy." Had Myang accepted these, then the parallel in the two persons, Jesus and Siddhartha, would have been most striking.

I now saw that it was wisdom to leave unrelated everything which preceded the baptism of Jesus. On the following days we went more and more into detail of the lives and teachings of our respective heroes. The similarity of the Sermon on the Mount and the specific "Laws of Gautama," revealed itself in almost every statement. Only one feature of Jesus came into prominent view. He taught that the motive in service must be "love." Siddhartha announced a philosophy of life. It was principle that was the force in Buddhism. In Christianity that force was the power of God in human life.

Since each passed the truth each put his opponents to shame, route, or won them to be disciples. Gautama did not appoint a memorial. The shaving of the head and a complete bath in pure water, the first ceremony in making a Buddhist, might be compared with baptism. The constant wearing of the "yellow robe," might be turned into a sign of regular communion. The one event in the life of Jesus where there was no comparison in the life of Gautama, was the Resurrection. The body of Gautama, when eighty years old, was cremated and seen no more. Jesus came from the grave, and was seen by his disciples before his final disappearance.

Myang said, when we again had met, "I have been thinking of the wonderful parallels in the lives of Jesus and the Blessed Gautama. As I see it, Jesus must have imitated the Blessed Gautama. The laws and biography of the Blessed Gautama, no doubt had reached Arabia in those six centuries during which Buddhism existed before the planting of Christianity. It must have been the corrupted Lamohistic teaching which reached the Jews. If you will recall all the legends of the North Church and compare them to the events as we have now read them in the Gospels of Jesus, you will see how complete the parallel is. Since we reject the legendary or miraculous things taught by the North Church, in reference to the Blessed Gautama, and if you will reject the supernatural of the Gospels, we will find that both men were very much alike in character and teaching. This 'Resurrection from the Dead' must belong to the superstitious portions added to the biography of Jesus."

CONSPIRACY AGAINST TRADE IS A PUNISHABLE OFFENSE

BY ALFRED WELLINGTON JONES, LOS ALAMITOS

The head and front of this conspiracy is ostensibly F. C. Lowry of the Federal Sugar Refinery. The arch conspirators are the Seaboard or Wall Street cane refineries. The ill-conceived object is to throttle the production, manufacture and sale of American produced beet sugar. An attempt is made under the guise of tariff reduction to recruit from the ranks in Congress more conspirators, all of whom will attempt to make it appear to the people that it is better to send money to the tropics to pay coolie labor than to employ American labor and raise sugar beets from our own soil. More recently attempt is being made to drag President Wilson into the conspiracy. Will he heed the warning, "Stop—look—listen," or will he be blindly led by Wall Street sugar interests who insist upon free sugar. Doubtless he has access to facts and figures which will show him that our people expend $400,000,000 a year for sugar, of which $100,000,000 is expended in foreign countries, while it all might be purchased at home as a home product from a small portion of the 274,000,000 acres of available good beet land of which only 500,000 acres are now used in supplying the raw material for the home product, beet sugar.

Incidentally it may be said that if the 274,000,000 acres referred to above were all planted to sugar beets yielding a rotative crop once in three years, sufficient sugar might be procured therefrom to supply five times as much as is now consumed by the whole world, the United States included.

These staggering figures are based upon the present average production from the 500,000 acres now growing sugar beets in this country. Also it might be shown that no other one factor has had such an influence in lowering the price of sugar to the consumer as has the establishment of the beet sugar industry in this country.

Also that the surest way to permanently advance the price of sugar to the consumer would be to kill beet sugar production and give the Wall Street cane refineries and Cuban planters full control of our home market for an indefinite period.

Joining the F. C. Lowry crowd would mean the death knell of an industry which, if allowed to expand, will through rotation with sugar beets double the yield of American farms and thereby lower the price of all food stuffs to the 96,000,000 consumers. Furthermore, the chance of effecting a saving in the price of sugar amounting to 14 cents per capita per annum would soon be shown to be a myth, for with domestic sugar taken on our home market, the world's price would immediately advance to a figure higher than it is at present and the cane refiners would be able to dictate future prices for all time, yet our law makers condone a crime by endorsing F. C. Lowry's lying propaganda so industriously circulated that the tariff taken off of sugar would result in making it two cents cheaper to the consumer. Lowry knows better, and so do the people, if they will stop to think. Lowry's own testimony in the Congressional Record shows him to be a falsifier.

Agriculture has laid the foundation that has made this the greatest and most powerful nation in the world. Would, then, President Wilson, at the behest of Wall Street, kill sugar agriculture? Discouraging agriculture is "Crawfish Progressivism," which is "killing the goose that laid the golden egg."

Obviously any individual, state or country which buys more than is sold must eventually go bankrupt. The farm value of agricultural products produced in the United States in a single season aggregates the enormous—the unthinkable—sum of four and one-half billions of dollars, or forty-nine dollars for each man, woman and child in the country.

Buying $100,000,000 worth of sugar abroad when it might be produced at home is an example of bankrupt tendencies.

Here is the crux of the situation: No farming is good farming, or justifiable farming even, that does not leave the land at the end of a term of years undiminished in fertility.

And statistics show that we, as a nation are far from maintaining a normal balance between the production and consumption of vegetable food supplies. Comparatively little new land is available, hence it is imperative that lands now under cultivation should be made more productive.

(Solve this by rotation with sugar beets.)

As everyone knows, the soil that produces the same crop year after year becomes greatly impoverished until at last it is no longer able to supply the proper nourishment for a new crop.

The proper method for the renovation of soils is well known to be rotation.

It can safely be said that there is not a body of men who can approach in the slightest the skill and wonderful exactness of these remarkable people.

The Devlin Zouaves will be seen here April 16 in the parade, which this year promises to be one of the best free street spectacles ever given. It might also be mentioned that the Sells-Floto people still adhere to the cut-rate price of admission which is 25 cents. Those who do not care to visit the performance of the circus can find much entertainment by going to the circus lot in the morning or evening and hearing the concert given by the Berni Giant Serenadum, which is the largest musical instrument in the world.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Visitor From Iowa Charminglly Entertained by Family of Whom She Is Guest

A dinner was given Sunday in honor of Mrs. Lucinda Young's birthday. She is from Tipton, Iowa, and is visiting her nephew, Mr. Wm. Collar, and family. The table was decorated with California poppies and twelve sat down to the well-filled table.

A post card shower was given Mrs. Young, also several pretty presents. Mrs. Young leaves for the east this week after having spent several months in Southern California.

Those present were Mrs. Young, Mrs. Earl Horton, Blanche Morton, Forrest Collar, W. A. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Collar, Miss Amy Collar, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Mayer, Mrs. J. Chamberlain and Bessie Crawford of Pasadena.

His First Milestone

Gene, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Anderson, reached his first milestone yesterday and on his own little feet started on life's journey. To celebrate the occasion his fond parents invited his relatives to partake of a sumptuous dinner given in the little dining room. The guests in return showered Master Gene with pretty things. The small lad unlike Snooks, of the funny papers, was willing to share his playthings with his pretty little cousin, Marjorie Adams. His unselfish nature shone out through his smiles, a pleasant revelation to the visitors.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were Mr. and Mrs. B. Utley, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Adams and baby Marjorie, Mrs. M. V. Adams, Misses Edith Adams and Elva Utley.

Woman's Club Meeting

The Woman's Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Anna Gale, the subject for study being "The Dread of All Nations." Election of officers for the ensuing year will be an important feature of the meeting.

Mrs. Balderston in Hospital

Mrs. George Balderston was taken to the Santa Ana hospital today to undergo a serious operation. Her many friends will be anxious to know of the result, hoping the operation will be successful, terminating in speedy recovery.

Past Matrons' Association

The Past Matrons' Association, O. E. S., will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Maude Bowes, 1014 Main street. The new officers of the association are: Mrs. O. M. Robbins, president; Mrs. W. S. Peck, vice president; Mrs. George Balderston, secretary; Mrs. Alice Tubbs, treasurer.

Congregationalists Call Pastor

At a called meeting of the members of the Congregational church yesterday forenoon that church gave an unanimous call to Rev. Fred Staff of Grand Rapids, Wis., to accept the pastorate of the church. Mr. Staff has been preaching here for a few Sundays past and will preach here next Sunday at the Congregational church before returning to his Wisconsin home to lay the matter of his call to the local church before his congregation and his family. Rev. Mr. Staff is the popular pastor of a flourishing congregation that recently erected a $38,000 church edifice and which gives him a handsome salary.

Attend Wedding

O. H. Burke and City Clerk Burke went to Rivera today to be present this afternoon at the wedding of their daughter, Miss Mamie L. Burke, to Jack Wyatt of Whittier, at the home of their mother, Mrs. S. W. Burke. In the party going from Santa Ana to the wedding were O. H. Burke, wife and son, Samuel, J. C. Burke, Miss Maude Heffner and Miss Amber P. Brackney.

Felty's Hill

A pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Felts, 332 East Sixth street, when their daughter Clara was united in marriage to J. Mark Hill of Los Angeles by the Rev. J. A. Stevenson. The bride and groom were not attended and only near relatives were

CIVICS CLUB

"Civics" In Broad Sense, Subject of Several Speakers; Prof. McMath Gives Fine Address

The meetings of the Woman's Civics Club are growing in interest every month, the one held Saturday afternoon at the city hall proving to be particularly good. The general subject was "Civics" and Mrs. C. F. Crose spoke on "The Need of Co-operation in Civic Work." Among other things she said:

"We women can do little but suggest what we think should be done to the officers of the city, but I am sure that they are willing to take up any improvement when they are convinced that it is needed."

Mrs. W. B. Tedford gave an earnest plea for a morally clean city. "We want the kind of people to come here who like a clean town, with no saloons and plenty of churches, and to attract that class we must keep our town clean."

The progress of the Fly campaign, one of the pet measures of the club, was taken up by Mrs. R. H. English, Mrs. J. A. Lash and Mrs. L. K. Strong. After the meeting was over A. M. Shaw brought in a trap, which the high school boys had made after a model used in Los Angeles. It is much like the larger traps in use here which when properly baited give excellent service.

Mrs. N. L. Deimling read from a letter and newspaper clippings sent by Senator Anderson relating to the bills favored by the Civics club, now pending in the legislature.

Among the matters of business, the club voted to give a banner to the Y. M. C. A. boys.

E. H. McMath, principal of the high school, then gave a splendid address on "The New Kind of Patriotism," a few epigrammatic paragraphs from which follow:

"The old kind of patriotism too often consisted in boasting that we had the finest country on earth; the new kind is to make it the finest country. We need inspiration from the past but perspiration for the present."

"True patriotism consists of many things. First, every one must be economically independent, to be able in some way to earn his own living. No man can be a good citizen whose family is starving. It used to be said that the only way in which a boy could earn a trade was to commit a crime and be sent to the penitentiary. There he was taught a trade."

"The true patriot must be well educated so that he can form his own opinion on the issues of the day for which he casts his ballot."

"The true patriot must be a good neighbor. Most of the petty crimes in court are committed by people who are not thoughtful of the common rights of others."

"The patriot must be true to himself. He must be truthful, honest, law-abiding. An honest government can only be made by honest citizens. He must work to make his dreams come true; what we need is not so much people with wishbones as with backbones. Whatever lies in his way is his duty. It may be to help arrest a thug, to rescue a drowning man, to serve on a jury or to run for office."

"We should not only study the works of the heroes of the past, but we should strive to work in the spirit in which they worked."

"The man who helps to clean a city of vice and keep it clean is working with as great a courage and as high a moral purpose as Washington at Valley Forge."

Principal McMath's paper is being published elsewhere in the Register.

C. W. B. M. Convention Was Successful

The Woman's Board of Missions of the Southern District of the Christian church held its annual convention here Friday at the First Christian church.

The successful sessions lasting through the day from the opening hour of 10 o'clock, Mrs. Anna Paul Casson led a conference in which the delegates from auxiliaries of Santa Ana, Orange, Fullerton, Huntington Beach, and Anaheim participated. M. P. Clubb, secretary of the Evangelizing board, gave an address, and Miss La Rue Phillips contributed musical numbers through the morning program.

The business sessions were divided by the lunch hour when the delegates were entertained by the Santa Ana church. The afternoon session was opened by devotions conducted by Mrs. C. C. Bentley. Mrs. L. D. Mills of Santa Ana was elected to succeed Mrs. Pixley who resigned from the position of district manager. Mrs. Mills briefly addressed the meeting, voicing her appreciation of being chosen to the responsible position. With a rising vote of thanks and other expressions of appreciation of her services, Mrs. Pixley was shown the esteem of the convention won by her faithful services.

Miss Adelaide Gail Frost gave a deeply interesting talk on India's women, telling of their sad condition. She also asked aid for Jacob Kennedy, an American negro working among the cannibal tribes of Africa. Orders were taken for a book written by the negro missionary. The Japanese work of this state was described by Mrs. G. M. Anderson, state secretary of the C. W. B. M. A solo by Mrs. T. A. Win-

FRESIDENT AND MRS. WILSON'S WREATH ON JEFFERSON'S TOMB

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 14.—The ivy and sago palm wreath, sent by President and Mrs. Wilson, was placed on Jefferson's tomb at 2 o'clock yesterday by Congressman Jefferson M. Levy. The Illinois delegation of the D. A. R. failed to arrive in time for the ceremony, but Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois made a brief speech.

After the exercises at the grave, the local D. A. R. and guests repaired to Monticello and listened to an earnest defense of his ownership and care of Monticello by Congressman Levy, who declared that the estate never has been, and is not now, for sale, and that he would continue his stewardship of the shrine, preserving it with all the care of former years.

MOVING PICTURES BECOME PART OF PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

FT. SMITH, Ark., April 14.—Declared to be the first time in the history of Arkansas, the motion picture has become a part of the public school system. A machine purchased by the faculty and students of DuVal school by subscription was formally installed recently. Twenty thousand feet of films giving scenes and customs in every country in the world are included.

CALIFORNIA CRUDE OIL TO BE AVAILABLE FOR NAVAL FUEL

WASHINGTON, April 14.—That crude oil, especially that from California, will be an available naval fuel for years to come was told by Secretary Lane of the interior department to Secretary Daniels of the navy. "Twenty years hence," wrote Secretary Lane, "the price of fuel oil, which then as now, will be produced chiefly in California, will be much higher, and the production will probably have declined seriously."

ORANGES BRINGING HIGHEST PRICES

Pomona Packing 11,000 Boxes

Oranges to Meet Strong Eastern Demand

POMONA, April 14.—Eleven thousand boxes of oranges are now being packed in the Park avenue plant of the Pomona Fruit Growers, the result of two days' hauling. Eighty persons are actively engaged in the work of packing the fruit for the eastern market, where good fruit is in strong demand. Reports issued to the growers show prices received for fruit shipped by them to be the highest in the history of the industry in this valley. Fruit which was at first thought to have been damaged by frost has been sold for $3 and $3.50 a box.

Social Life At Yucaipa

The soil, water, irrigation and products are not the only good things at Yucaipa. Valuable and important as they are, the social life of the new community is a real factor. Just now the valley folk are busy incorporating their "Growers' Association," so helpful and useful. The ladies are getting ready to do their part at the annual fair and bazaar in connection with the big apple show to be held in the valley in the early autumn. The annual May Day picnic, held in the beautiful natural park in Wildwood Canyon, promises to be of unusual interest. Here all the valley folk will assemble for a great day of pleasure. The women's club does much for the social life of the valley. With the Aid societies, Athletic club, churches, schools, and library, Yucaipa has about all the social advantages of any community. But the delightful country and village life in Yucaipa has an element in it that is especially attractive, born doubtless of the spirit and good fellowship of the new community, the freedom of the country, the elevation and beauty of the valley, and the bright anticipation of prosperity. The soil, the water, the products, the people, are all of the best. Go up with us to see. One day trips every week.

BABE'S PLAYFUL SLAP BRINGS ARREST

Hilario Might Have Escaped

Awakened Jake Souder

ORANGE YOUTHS ARE TAKEN AT A GAME

Man Named Hindman Arrested
For Burglarizing Cottages
at Newport Beach

The playful slap of a baby, awakening early in the morning, was partly responsible for the arrest of Juan Hilario at Newport Beach this morning. Officers had searched all night for Hilario, wanted for stabbing his friend, Ramon Papeno, five times, and it is possible that Hilario would not now be in jail had it not been for the fact that Jake Souder's baby is one of those whose daily activities begin with the break of day.

Hilario was drinking last night, and for some unknown reason he attacked Papeno in a yard at Delhi. Perhaps he had a new dagger and wanted to try it out. Whatever the reason, Papeno was stabbed five times, once in the stomach and four times in the back. His injuries will probably not prove fatal.

A LAND OF OPPORTUNITY

Humboldt County, the least developed in California, presents splendid opportunities to investors and homeseekers. Men and money are needed for dairying, small fruit growing, truck farming, general farming and apple raising. A country of wonderful resources and ideal climate into which the first railroad is now building. All inquiries promptly answered by the Humboldt Promotion and Development Committee, Eureka, Cal.

A suit brought recently by Anna Rothfuss against her former husband, C. F. Rothfuss of Anaheim and his present wife, Mina Rothfuss, was dismissed today at the request of Attorney E. D. Martindale of Los Angeles. The plaintiff asked for judgment decreeing title to her in certain stocks alleged to have been turned over by Rothfuss to his present wife to defeat a $1500 judgment secured in Los Angeles against him by the plaintiff.

EX-CITY TRUSTEE ENCOUNTERS RATTLER IN THE MOUNTAINS

Here is a snake story with a shoe-string to it. If you won't believe it—why, there's the snake to prove it. He is a rattlesnake with eight rattles and a button, and he is on exhibition in Fred Avast's shop window. What's more, he is alive and is one of the hero's of one of the most exciting adventures yet brought down out of Black Star canyon.

Here is the way the story is told. It has been changed a little bit, perhaps, to heighten the high lights and bring out the mountain shadows. Anyhow, it makes a mighty good story.

It seems that John Avast, ex-city trustee and owner of the Richelieu block, and his son, Fred Avast, went to Black Star yesterday to inspect Fred Avast's mountain ranch. The two were crossing a creek, John Avast well in the lead. The elderly Avast jumped from stone to stone, and was just about to leap to a large flat stone that lay at the edge of the water when—horror of horrors!—all coiled up on that stone with his head up was a giant rattlesnake, from whose devilish eye there flashed a baleful gleam. Avast was in motion. He was too close to stop. He had to do something, and according to one story this is what occurred.

Avast jumped high, and in desperate haste seized the branch of a sycamore. One of Avast's shoestrings had been hanging loose flipped around the snake's neck and held tight. Avast dangled in the air, the snake dangled to Avast and the two whirled the air up for fair.

This much is certain, Fred Avast, the son, came to the rescue with a forked stick and pinioned the rattlesnake to the ground. Not far away was found the box of a clock with the glass unbroken. Into that box the snake was jammed, and he mighty near filled it. The clock door was locked and all bound round with a woolen string. In that way the denizen of the canyon was brought into Santa Ana. He is a big fellow, a fit subject for any kind of a snake story.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ALEXANDER A. GRAHAM

The funeral services of Alexander Atchison Graham, son of George A. Graham, who lives at 1726 Valencia avenue, were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his devoted grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Venn, 544 East Washington avenue, with whom the young man has made his home. Alexander has been in failing health for many years. Death came Saturday evening and lifted the soul from the wasted body to rest forever in the Great Beyond.

The young man has for many years been a member of the First Baptist church of this city, and the pastor, Rev. Otto S. Russell, was in charge of the services, which were from the Venn residence. The choir of the Baptist church sweetly sang, one of the numbers being "Under His Wings," one of the songs chosen by the family to be sung at the funeral of another son, Andrew, who died some years ago. The pall bearers were Alexander's body to the burying place were all young friends of his. They were Arthur Dean, Will Lockett, Verne Williamson, Alfred Catland, Lester Platt and Fred Tratt.

Interment was in Fairhaven cemetery beside the grave of Andrew. With the death of Alexander, who was but 19 years of age, the family mourns the loss of a bright and cheerful young boy just about to enter into manhood. Beside Mr. and Mrs. George A. Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Venn, there are four other children, Misses Celie, Alberta and Anita and William Graham.

A BIG FEATURE SHOW AT THE BELL TONIGHT

"The Grim Toll of War," a great two-reel special production dealing with actual incidents of the Civil War, at the same time picturing a life of love and devotion wonderfully told, will be seen at the Bell theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week, and while it is plainly the feature the other numbers of this three nights new show would make good as headlines on any program. "Going Some," by Pathe is a real comedy, and the two vaudeville acts, Miss Coma, "Queen of the Rolling Globe" and Charles Marsh, "The Milwaukee Boy," in "The Rag Time Englishman," are well worth the while and money. All at the Bell for three nights.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living today." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by all druggists.—Advertisement.

CAME TOGETHER AT HIGH RATE OF SPEED

Zanjero Peterkin on Motorcycle
Went Head-on Into Automobile

ORANGE, April 14.—W. D. Peterkin, zanjero of the S. A. V. L. Co., went head-on into an automobile at the corner of Lemon street and Palmyra avenue yesterday afternoon. While his motorcycle was wrecked Peterkin escaped with but a few bruises, remarkably few bruises considering the high rate of speed that both motorcycle and automobile were going when the collision occurred.

Peterkin was going south and the automobile, driven by G. W. Doremus of Los Angeles, was going east. Peterkin had no time to dodge. He was thrown on to the fender and running board of the automobile, while his motorcycle went under the big machine.

YOUNGSTERS ARE UP FOR JOY-RIDING IN EDWARDS' MACHINE

ORANGE, April 14.—Morris Hartwick and Earl Arling are paying the toll for the fun they had on the night of March 31, at which time they went several dozen miles in an automobile that belonged to N. T. Edwards. Hartwick has been keeping well out of sight ever since it happened, but was picked up Saturday at Anaheim. He and Arling were before Justice Fullerton this morning, and since they are under 18 years of age they were certified to the juvenile court to be dealt with by Superior Judge West. Edwards' automobile was rolled out of the garage and along the driveway beside Edwards' house while he was in the house with friends.

STOMACH SOUR? GOT INDIGESTION ALSO?

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Upset Stomachs Feel Fine in Five Minutes

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, indigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full dose of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house in case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains powerful sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble.
